

E. Angel James, CNM, WHNP-BC, Research

Resident, ANSIRH. Angel James is a predoctoral student in the UCSF School of Nursing, Family Health Care Department. She is a recipient of the National Institute of General Medical Sciences IMSD fellowship. In addition, Ms. James is currently a volunteer clinician at the Women's Community Clinic. Her research interests include unintended pregnancy and the nursing role in unintended pregnancy prevention and abortion care. Ms. James has many years of experience as a nurse in women's health both in the hospital and clinic settings. Prior to returning to school, she worked as a certified nurse midwife and nurse practitioner for Planned Parenthood of the Pacific Southwest. She received her BSN and MS from the University of Illinois at Chicago.