

Rebecca Michelson, Analyst, Sea Change Program.

Rebecca Michelson is an Analyst with the Social and Emotional Aspects of Abortion Program, focusing on abortion stigma. She enjoys an interdisciplinary perspective in the field of reproductive health and has volunteered as a doula, advocate, and researcher. With Access Women's Health Justice, she's lobbied at Reproductive Freedom Day, led reproductive justice trainings, and is currently their Grants Fellow. At UC Davis, she created a literature review with ANSIRH's work for a senior research project determining the top three barriers to reproductive health care in California and proposed three solutions. She volunteers with the Bay Area Doula Project and San Francisco General Hospital. Ms. Michelson received her BA in Cultural Anthropology where she worked on Nursing school prerequisites.
