

Jason Harless, Communications Associate. Jason Harless works with ANSIRH's Communications Working Group to guide external communications through traditional and social media. He works with researchers to create media plans and messaging for new publications, partner outreach, web presence, video blogs and other opportunities that require translation of ANSIRH's unique research. He's been working for UCSF in the Department of Obstetrics, Gynecology and Research Sciences since 2009. In addition to project management, he has guided communications on other research projects within the university. Prior to coming to UCSF, he spent five years working at The Scripps Research Institute in La Jolla, California. He did his undergraduate work at Indiana University in Biological Anthropology. 510-986-8963.
