

Jasmine Powell, Program Coordinator. Jasmine Powell is ANSIRH's Program Coordinator, supporting the successful operation of the entire office as well as providing assistance on multiple research projects. Ms. Powell began her UCSF career in early 2013 working for the Orthopedic Trauma Institute, supporting orthopedic trauma surgeons at UCSF and San Francisco General Hospital. Working closely with patients, Ms. Powell was recognized for her selfless desire to help those in need and for her overall customer service skills. A San Francisco native, Ms. Powell has volunteered with several non-profit organizations in the Bay Area that are working to educate the less fortunate, with a heavy emphasis on the unserved youth. Since receiving her Bachelor's degree in 2013, she has been on a quest to find her true passion in helping others. When given the opportunity to work for ANSIRH, she was thrilled to know that she would be working alongside people with common goals, while being introduced to many new avenues to assist those in need.
